The Day of the LORD

²⁸ “And afterward,

I will pour out my Spirit on all people.

Your sons and daughters will prophesy,

your old men will dream dreams,

your young men will see visions.

²⁹ Even on my servants, both men and women,

I will pour out my Spirit in those days.

³⁰ I will show wonders in the heavens

and on the earth,

blood and fire and billows of smoke.

³¹ The sun will be turned to darkness

and the moon to blood

before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the LORD.

³² And everyone who calls

on the name of the LORD will be saved;

for on Mount Zion and in Jerusalem

there will be deliverance,

as the LORD has said,

even among the survivors

whom the LORD calls.

LET US PRAY -

- With thankful hearts for answered prayer and providential guidance.
- For each other. For protection where it is needed, for bravery when it is called for and for boldness where it is demanded.
- That as we start 2025 we might know the peace of God for ourselves and that we might be the bringers of peace and joy to others in the name of Jesus Christ.
- For all those of our friends and fellowship who are not well or are mourning - and for those who are carers and comforters.
- That the cease-fire in the Middle East might be enduring and that the will of the Lord might be made evident
- For our government and opposition as they seek to deal with issues and responsibilities both home and abroad. Also our local government at all levels as they also seek to balance books and provide services.
- For those organisations who are seeking to ensure a Christian ethic in any legislation that is set before Parliament and that those Christians who work there might maintain a faithful witness.
- “Our prayers may be awkward. Our attempts may be feeble. But since the power of prayer is in the one who hears it and not in the one who says it, our prayers do make a difference.” – Max Lucado
